

I am writing to heartily recommend Rebecca Klassen to you! I have known her since 2011 in her capacity as an English teacher to international students. I worked together with her in my capacity as a Campus Staff for a Christian service organization, International Students, Inc, that seeks to help internationals have a positive experience of the United States by helping them in many practical ways as well as introducing them to American families.

Becky is an exceptional teacher, communicating both the details and context for the English language and American culture very well. The students learned a great deal in her classes and they not only enjoyed the classes, but their relationship with her as well. She was always quick to include them in community activities and to invite them to her home; they felt loved and valued by her. I have seen her “go the extra mile” for them in many different scenarios; always being an advocate for them in the community and with the school. Her own experience of living overseas and learning other languages has informed her sensitivity to their experience, as well.

Consequently, I think she would be a very valuable asset to you in whatever context she is needed. Becky has a very positive and cooperative spirit that works well in a team; she is very aware of the world, reliable, energetic and creative. We hate to lose her here but know that wherever she goes, she will be an advocate and a friend to international students.

Please feel free to call me or email for further questions that you might have concerning Becky Klassen.

Sincerely,

Anne T. Adrian
